SUFFOLK, Virginia (January 14, 2014) The staff at George's Steak House, located at 1260 Holland Road, in the Holland Plaza Shopping Center, are proud to be celebrating thirty five years in business. To honor the commendable milestone, they are hosting a commemorative event on Wednesday, January 15th at 2 p.m. at their restaurant. The public is welcome to attend.

George's Steak House was founded in 1978 by brothers George and John Taglis and their Uncle, George Skartsiounis. The restaurant has been at the same location since its inception and has undergone multiple updates and renovations through the years. The menu features classic steakhouse and seafood cuisine. Some entrées have a Greek culinary style which is homage to the owners' heritage. The specials rotate weekly and the weekend special always feature a seafood dish.

"We are thankful for our loyal customers," remarked Co-Owner George Taglis. "Our customers have been with us for many years, and we have gotten to know them as extended family."

"The Taglis family's dedication to their clientele and the community ensures their place in Suffolk's culinary history and hearts of their many customers," said Suffolk Mayor Linda T. Johnson.
